MESSAGE DU DIRECTEUR

Le Mayo College aspire à préparer nos étudiants à devenir des leaders mondiaux. Nos étudiants devraient développer une vision du monde inclusive, sensible et empathique.

Les échanges culturels sont un puissant forum pour faciliter une compréhension plus profonde entre les peuples. Le partage d'une langue commune est un moyen puissant pour y parvenir. Notre société française a pour double objectif d'enseigner une nouvelle langue à un étudiant et de favoriser sa prise de conscience culturelle. Je suis heureux que la Société Française du Mayo College ait activement contribué à concrétiser cette vision. Ils ont dirigé avec succès six éditions du Concours de la Francophonie.

Je leur souhaite le meilleur pour l'événement de cette année.

DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Mayo College aspires to prepare our students to become global leaders. Our students should develop a worldview that is inclusive, sensitive and empathetic. Cultural exchanges are a powerful forum for facilitating a deeper understanding among people. Sharing a common language is a potent medium to achieve this. Our French Society serves a dual purpose of teaching a student a new language as well as cultivating cultural awareness. I am happy that the Mayo French Society has been active in driving this vision. They have enthusiastically conducted six successful editions of the Le Concours de la Francophonie.

I wish them the very best for the event this year.

Head of Department

*Petit à petit, l'oiseau fait son nid.
(Little by little, the bird builds its nest.)*

Le langage offre aux générations futures l'outil le plus important qui soit pour leur succès. Le monde devenant un village planétaire et se rapprochant chaque jour, il devient nécessaire pour les futurs dirigeants de faire face à cette situation et de se préparer à tous les défis qui se présenteront à eux. La langue est la feuille de route de toute culture. Je me sens privilégié de tenir la main de mes étudiants pendant qu'ils empruntent ce chemin.

L'apprentissage d'une langue étrangère non seulement sensibilise à une nouvelle culture, mais ouvre également les portes à une pléthore d'opportunités, élargissant les horizons. Une langue est une célébration de la vie. C'est un monde totalement nouveau dans lequel on entre et plonge dans une culture qui implique non seulement la communication, mais aussi un mode de vie qui comprend la mode, la routine quotidienne, l'architecture, etc.

Je suis ravi qu'à Mayo, je peux guider les étudiants, les aider à développer des compétences dans la langue et les initier à un nouveau mode de vie ! Les événements Echanges et Le Concours de la Francophonie sont des moyens de réaliser certains des objectifs du XXI siècle tels que la collaboration, la sensibilisation sociale et culturelle et le leadership. Benjamin Lee Whorf a dit à juste titre: «Le langage façonne notre façon de penser et détermine ce à quoi nous pouvons penser.»

Language equips future generations with the most important tool that is the secret to their success. With the world becoming a global village and coming closer each day, it becomes necessary for the future leaders to cope up with this and make themselves ready for whatever challenges come their way. Language is the road map of any culture. I feel privileged that I hold hands of my students as they tread this path.

Learning a foreign language not only sensitises one to a new culture but also opens doors to a plethora of opportunities, expanding horizons. A language is a celebration of life. It's a totally new world one steps into and immerses in the culture which involves not just communication but a way of life which includes fashion, daily routine, architecture and more.

I am glad that at Mayo, I have been able to guide students and help them develop skills in the language and introduce them to a new way of life! Events like Le Concours de la Francophonie and the exchanges are means to achieve some of the goals of the 21st century such as Collaboration, Social and Cultural Awareness and Leadership. Benjamin Lee Whorf rightly says 'Language shapes the way we think, and determines what we can think about.'

Teachers Desk

Un enseignement du français, un concours de la francophonie et un magazine, le Mayo College met tout en œuvre pour promouvoir la langue française en Inde.

Grâce au travail de son directeur, le Lt Gen Surendra Kulkarni, de son chef du département de français, M. Kunal Kumar et de ses étudiants, des élèves du monde entier viennent au Rajasthan présenter leur grand intérêt pour la langue française.

Le français n'est ni une langue morte, ni en déclin. Au contraire, dans cinquante ans, il y aura entre 480 à 750 millions de personnes francophones dans le monde. Visionnaire, le Mayo College a parfaitement compris ceci. Avec une économie de plus en plus globalisée, parler anglais est indispensable, mais n'est plus suffisant. Il faut désormais parler deux et même trois langues. Avec l'hindi, l'anglais et le français, les élèves du Mayo College seront parfaitement capables de relever les défis du futur.

Je suis fier, honoré et reconnaissant devant tous ces efforts pour donner à la langue française la place qu'elle mérite. Je suis ravi de pouvoir apporter ma modeste contribution, dans une institution si prestigieuse.

A French Language Course, a French Language Contest, a French Magazine, Mayo College strives to promote the French language in India with all its endeavours.

Thanks to the work of its Director, Lt Gen Surendra Kulkarni and Head of the French Department, Mr. Kunal Kumar that the students from around the world come to Rajasthan to be a part of the extravaganza called “Le Concours de la Francophonie”.

In fifty years they will be anywhere between 480 and 750 million French-speaking people in the world. Mayo College has fully understood this. With an increasingly globalized economy, speaking English is essential, but is no longer sufficient. We must now speak two or even three languages. With Hindi, English and French, students at Mayo College equip themselves to meet the challenges of the future.

I am proud, honored and grateful for all the efforts to give the French language the place it deserves. I am delighted to be able to make my modest contribution to such a prestigious institution.

“LE CONCOURS DE LA FRANCOPHONIE”

Started in 2014, the Le Concours de La Francophonie is now a Grand Annual Festival, which is more commonly known as the French festival.

When started, the competition initially comprised of 5 events-Quiz, Declamation, Solo song, Poetry, Reading; later Film Making was added in the year 2016 adding to the interests of our young film makers and Francophone Quiz.

The Mayo College French Society actively drives the vision of bringing the students closer to a language which has a potential of a total of million speakers by 2050, making it a major global language.

The special things about the French festival are that all the trophies are made in-house by our students. The idea of bringing the French festival was to make students more familiar with French but in an easy and enjoyable format of understanding and learning and giving them a global perspective.

LYCÉE NOTRE DAME DES OISEAUX PARIS

The exchange started off from the IGI Airport Delhi on June 3 with a group of 10 students- Kush Goyal, Vedant Jain, Samridh Bahety, Atharva Kedia, Rohan Jindal, Swayam Sahani, Abhishek Gupta, Shubhav Suri, Akshat Jain and Agrim Mithale escorted by Mr. Kunal Kumar. They reached the Charles De Gaulle Airport, Paris after a 10 hour long flight. The host school bus drove them straight to the school, through the city of Paris. On reaching the school, the students were welcomed by their host families which was followed by some snacks, drinks, candies and chocolates. The evening was spent at the homes of the families which gave the boys time to acquaint with the family members. They also got to know about the French cuisine and delicacies and had a sumptuous 'French' dinner prepared by their host families. The boys met their exchange coordinator Madame Picard who took them for a brief campus visit and introduced them to the school officials. The boys also attended French, English and Mathematics classes and had a discussion on how the teaching-learning transactions differ from their school. The rest of the day was spent at Sacre-Coeur which is a Roman Catholic Church, famous for its bustling streets, budding caricaturists and some scenic views of the city.

The boys also visited Le Louvre, which is the World's Largest Art Museum replete with masterpieces such as Mona Lisa. Then it was the time to witness the heart of Parisians-The Eiffel Tower. The boys got to the top of the Eiffel Tower to experience some breathtaking views of Paris and beyond. They spent a whole day at the Disneyland. Later they visited the awe-inspiring Palace Of Versailles and adjoining it, the beautiful Gardens Of Versailles. Here the boys walked around and rode bicycles. During the evening, they enjoyed playing football. The weekend was well planned by the hosts. Some of the boys got a chance to attend family gatherings which enhanced their knowledge about the French culture, while the others saw the major attractions of Paris. After spending a week in Paris, they left for Corsica. They went for shopping and relaxed at a beautiful beach, tried out beach volleyball, and further explored the capital city. The boys were accompanied by the family members of a former Mayo faculty, who hosted lunch at their home and made them explore a gorgeous beach side town. They left Corsica for the last day in Paris which was dedicated to shopping on the world famous streets of Champs Elysees and the Galleries Lafayette. The students also enjoyed at Arc De Triomphe and Bateau- Mouche which is an hour long boat ride, in the Seine River before leaving. It was truly a lifetime experience for the students where they enjoyed and learned about the French culture.

Frank Ribéry

Coming from a poverty-struck household to becoming one of the most popular football players of France, Frank Ribéry is, undoubtedly, one of the best examples of rags to riches.

Frank was born in the city of Boulogne-Sur-Mer, famous for its major fishing ports, to parents who did odd jobs for their living.

When he was only two, a tragedy struck his family. Their car collided with a lorry which sent young Frank crashing through the windshield. After the accident he got a hundred stitches on his face which left two deep scars on his face.

Frank's childhood was a misery. Throughout his childhood people would stare and point at Ribéry in the street, saying how 'ugly' the scars were. Due to his disfigurement he got into a lot of violent fights. As an adolescent, Frank was also fired from a training academy for his repeated violent behavior. Wherever he went, people used to stare at him because of his disfigured face.

But he did not let this deter him. His scars only made him more committed to succeed as one of the best wingers in the modern football. His story tells that even though childhood wounds are sometimes impossible to forget, they can become a powerful force in our adult life and turn us into a true champion.

French Proverbs

Après la pluie, le beau temps: Every cloud has a silverlining

Avec des si on mettrait Paris dans une bouteille - If wishes were horses, the beggars would ride

Parler de la pluie et du beau temps : To beat about the bush

Faire la pluie et le beau temps : To be all powerful

Il faut battre le fer quand il est chaud – Strike the iron while it's hot

Loin des yeux loin du cœur – Out of sight , out of mind

Pierre qui roule n'amasse pas mousse – A rolling stone gathers no moss

Les bons comptes font les bons amis – A debt paid is a friend kept

Plus on est de fous plus on rit – The more the merrier

Tout est bien qui finit bien – All is well that ends well

Les petits ruisseaux font les grandes rivières – Many a mickle makes a muckle

Si la jeunesse savait si vieillesse pouvait – If youth knew, if age could

Message from the Old Boys

To all associated with LCF as organizers, participants, judges or audience, wishing you all the very best for what's to come! I have had the greatest privilege to be associated with LCF since its inception. And as I write today, 6 years later, I feel the same association I had when I was physically present at Mayo struggling hard, along with a few other friends and of course, with the constant support of Mr KKR to bring this to reality. It is truly gratifying to see it grow each and every passing year. And I have absolutely no doubt that as Mayoites continue to scale up this initiative, we will see some very different and unique ideas come to life each and every year to ensure that all participants enjoy their time participating in the festival and also getting to know what Mayo is all about. While I might not exactly remember the French I learned at School, what was my takeaway from being associated with cultural festivals like LCF and in a French language course was simply that it provides a very different perspective of “life” and helps us realize that boundaries are only physical. So to all of you who are here at Mayo to celebrate French culture, congratulations! While I am not present at Mayo as a student, my association with the School is everlasting and love for it is ever-growing and thus, I take this opportunity to welcome each and everyone of you to Mayo College. Wishing you a wonderful time here, although I have absolute certainty that you will have “the time of your life” witnessing/participating in LCF.

Bonne chance à vous!
Sincere Regards;
Vishrut

College Captain & President Doorknobs (2016)

For the past 5 years I have seen “le concours de la Francophonie” grow and get more alive with every passing year. As the sixth edition approaches, I get nostalgic about all those times when the student body, with the help of the French department worked day and night to ensure that the two days go flawless and no person who has come to visit Mayo will have a bad experience on campus. Every child, right from junior school knows what they are responsible for and that they need to make sure that the show ends on a successful note . As an ex-Mayoite, I miss working with everyone, but they have all my wishes in making the festival a successful one. All my good wishes are with the doorknobs and I am sure they will make this one better than all the ones before.
